REAL AND IDEAL LIFE.

Could I but stop and face about,
And make my journey o'er—
Life's journey, o'er that beaten route,
O'er which I've gone footsore,
With some who pondered as they went,
Problems of life and death,
While others still were well content
To spend life free as breath.

I'd move with cautious wary tread,
I'd weigh each word I spoke,
Profit by all the truths I'd read,
By all the vows I'd broke;
The purest thoughts I'd entertain;
Each motive search and sift,
No word of mine should e'er give pain,
The drooping heart I'd lift.

My fellow-man should ever be
My brother and my friend;
For he should share my crust with me,
Whatever might portend;
The world should see a perfect man,
For I should keep the law!
My record one unbroken span
Of life without a flaw!

And then if wealth in untold gold
Were mine to hold or give,
I'd spend it gathering in the fold,
Stray souls that they might live;
And had I a paternal power
Like old Demetrius,
I'd preach from pulpit, dome and tower;
Put voice in all the trees.

But, ah, alas! I can't turn back!
And forward I must go,
If I be lacking, I must lack,
How'er much I deplore;
How can I then atone for all
My failures and my sin?
I must trust Christ and on Him call,
He'll hear and take me in.

SECOND BAPTIST CHURCH.

The Members Hear About It—The
Deacons Make a Report—Brother
Reed Not Yet Excluded—His
Conflicting Statements—The Madame's Admission.

The regular meeting of the Second Baptist Church took place last Monday night, Rev. Z. D. Lewis, D. D., presiding; Morton Deane, clerk. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. Routine business was transacted. Then came the report from Deacon Board. This had been awaited with much interest as embraced in this report was the case of Harrison Reed who had charged the pastor of the church with criminal intimacy with his wife. At this point, Rev. Lewis left the chair and Deacon W. H. White presided. Brother Harrison Reed was not present, although he had been cited to appear by Deacon John T. Taylor.

THE DEACON'S REPORT.
The report contained spicy references, and it was finally explained by Deacon Miles E. Jones and others. It seems that at the first meeting of the Deacon Board, Brother Reed had stated that he knew nothing of Rev. Lewis, but a Christian and a gentleman. He had signed the paper stating that he (Reed) bought the Raglan for his wife. But at the next meeting at which he was cited to appear he stated that Rev. Lewis had been giving him trouble in his home for about four years. He had made no denial that this was really the cause for his destroying the Raglan on Christmas day.

THE MADAME'S ADMISSIONS.
It was further ascertained that Mrs. Julia Reed had admitted that her husband had complained of Rev. Lewis' visits and had told her to tell him to stay away from his house.

Mrs. Reed had said to her husband that he was a man and he could tell Rev. Lewis himself. It was also shown that Brother Reed had signed the statement at the solicitation of some of the deacons, which statement was published in the newspapers.

THE HUSBAND'S STATEMENTS.
Reed had not exonerated the pastor in this statement. He had simply said that he bought the Raglan, but he had exonerated him in the first meeting of the Deacon Board in dealing with this question.

After hearing the statement, the Deacon Board had given Brother Reed thirty days in which to make up and go back to and live with his wife. With this understanding, no charges were made against Reed.

HE WOULDN'T GO BACK.

But the days passed by and Brother Reed not only would not return to his wife, but openly charged that she had been criminally intimate with the pastor of the Second Baptist Church, and for this reason he would not obey the Deacon Board.

Mrs. Reed became greatly incensed and reported to the deacons that her husband had not obeyed the order. At the next meeting of that body, at which he had appeared, he then stated that Rev. Lewis was the cause of the trouble. In view of his previous statements and his failure to comply with the requirements, Brother Reed was sent on to the church to be tried upon the charge of fighting, drunkenness and not living with his lawful wife.

SUED THE PASTOR.
Brother Reed secured counsel and instituted a suit for divorce, and later supplemented this suit by another for ten thousand dollars against Rev. Z. D. Lewis, D. D., charging him with alienating the affections of his wife. It seems that Sister Reed caught her husband on the street and beat him. It is said he carries a scar on his head now as a result of the encounter. As a result of this, he secured an order from the court restraining her from attacking him or in any way interfering with his peaceful avocation.

DIDN'T EXCLUDE BROTHER REED.
After hearing the statements at the church meeting, it was decided that it was inexpedient to take further action on the case at this time. So the matter was postponed until the next church meeting. Brother Reed was again cited to appear. The case has created a profound sensation. It seems that the church-clerk attended one of the deacons' meetings and not the other.

FROM THE PHILIPPINES.

No Color-Line There.

MANILA, P. I., March 4, 1902.

Through the usual channels of evil rumor a dangerous report got into circulation to the effect that Mrs. Hawkins, proprietress of the Royal Cafe on Calle Real, Manila, had been colored people from the patronage of her establishment, thereby drawing the color-line, the first in Manila. Knowing that the Americans in Manila as a whole were striving to leave the color-line in the past and for of our own people to start it at this date, your correspondent decided to interview Mrs. Hawkins. Consequently, I called on her at her establishment and fortunately found her unoccupied. Just after breakfasting her patrons, informing her of my mission, she readily consented to our interview, and made the following statement:

"I have drawn no line. My establishment is not open to any one nationality or race in Manila for their patronage would not suffice it. My restaurant is open to all."

She became justly indignant at the reports circulated and stated that she had never, nor never intended to bar anyone from her establishment, not even some soldiers who had behaved unbecomingly.

At the 24th Infantry barracks I learned that some soldiers had indirectly made slighting and ungentlemanly remarks about the proprietress' personal appearance while in her establishment and in her presence, which would have been perfectly justifiable in her barring him the place.

The Royal Cafe is situated in the walled city on Calle Real, the leading commercial thoroughfare of that section and enjoys a large cosmopolitan patronage.

In view of the fact that many soldiers are returning to the United States who would jump at any haphazard conclusion and spread such rumors broadcast throughout the country, I decided to get at the bottom of the matter with the above results.

Editor Young's Opinion—Understands
The Situation.

[Littleton, N. C. True Reformer.]

Editor John Mitchell, Jr. of the Richmond Planet is preparing to defend the Planet against a $10,000 demand for libel.

According to the PLANET, "Brother Nelson Williams, Jr. who forged the names to the application for the meeting," wants a handsome little fortune at PLANET's expense.

Mr. Williams has a big name which the PLANET has been using frequently, telling an interesting story every time it was used. Mr. Williams wants compensation for the use of his name, a very natural desire in these panic times, you may say that Editor Mitchell knows his business, therefore we think it will be a cold day when the fortune hunter fills his pockets out of the treasury of the Richmond PLANET.

VIRGINIA'S SHAME.

The First Lynching This Year—No Excuse For the Lynchers—The Governor Worried—No Reward Yet Offered—The Jailor Guilty.

Too Much of a Coward to Protect Him.

LYNCHBURG, VA., April 6, '02.

James Carter, a young colored youth who shot and seriously wounded Don Thomas, near New Glasgow, in Amherst County, Thursday night, was taken from jail at Amherst Court House last night just before midnight and lynched, a short distance from the village.

The deed was very quietly and expeditiously done. Between 11 and 12 o'clock a party of men estimated at about 200, and supposed to have come from the neighborhood of Clifflords, seven miles away, where Thomas lives, rode into the town of Amherst. All were masked and had their faces blackened.

The mob waited until the jailer, John Jones left the jail for his home, and then three or four of the leaders of the lynching party stopped him a short distance from the building and demanded that he return to the jail and unlock it.

At first he refused, but was finally compelled by their threats to give up the keys. They went to the jail, where Carter, and three other prisoners were confined, secured the prisoner, relocked the doors and returned the keys to the jailer.

Pure Gold Initiates.

The regular meeting of Pure Gold Court, No. 59 was held at the Castle Hall. All of the officers and members answered roll call. After the transaction of business, sister Anna Taylor, the mother of the deceased, introduced our Grand Chancellor John Mitchell, Jr., in a nice, happy speech, encouraging them to continue their way of elevating and carrying on the good work of the order. Sister Anna Taylor then took up the work of initiating the following sister into the order of the Pure Gold Court: Sisters Cora Anderson, Ida Parker and Martha Langhorne. Light refreshments were served. Sir R. B. Mosby and Sir S. S. Baker gave some very interesting talks. There were quite a number of other Sirs present, among whom were Sirs James L. Stewart, Andrew Smith, Winston Payne, secretary, Sister James L. Stewart.
